

3 myths quietly holding new GovCon shops back.

01

OF FIVE

THE MYTH

~~You need years of federal contract history before you can even apply for a GSA Schedule.~~

WHAT'S ACTUALLY TRUE

The Schedule itself is how you build that history. You don't need federal past performance to apply — you need commercial revenue and two years in business.

02

OF FIVE

THE MYTH

Federal contracting is dominated by large primes. Small businesses can't compete.

WHAT'S ACTUALLY TRUE

23% of all federal contract spending is legally mandated for small businesses. Agencies have annual goals they must hit — and they actively need small business vendors to fill them.

03

OF FIVE

THE MYTH

~~You need to undercut everyone on price to win federal bids.~~

WHAT'S ACTUALLY TRUE

Most federal solicitations use best-value evaluation — quality, past performance, and capability all count. Chronic undercutting kills your margins and signals risk to contracting officers.

YOUR TURN

Which one almost stopped you?

Drop the myth you believed when you first started looking at federal contracting. What finally changed your mind?